Eaton Appoints New Authorized Rebuilder

GALESBURG, MI ... Power management company Eaton has added another North American location to its list of Authorized Rebuilders with the recent signing of Drivetrain Service & Components, Inc., Bensenville, Illinois. Founded in 1980, the company has 30 employees and a 40,000-square-foot office, warehouse and shop facility in the Chicago suburb near O'Hare Airport.

Eaton's Authorized Rebuilder program, launched in 2013, ensures fleets and independent drivers that locally built remanufactured transmissions include 100 percent genuine Eaton components and meet all of Eaton's rebuild requirements. The program has been successful in providing customers with a higher level of confidence and after-the-sale support than other rebuilders can provide.

"Drivetrain Service has a longstanding and well regarded reputation as a premier rebuilder in the greater Chicago area," said Bill Fouch, NAFTA aftermarket manager, Eaton. "Now all of their current and future customers are going to see even more value with the many benefits that come with being an Eaton Authorized Rebuilder."

To gain recognition, rebuilders are required to complete Eaton's technical and sales training, they must meet Eaton's re-use and rebuild criteria, and must use 100 percent Eaton content for all of the transmissions rebuilt as a part of the program.

“This new partnership with Eaton verifies our commitment to always providing the very best in quality products,” said Paresh Patel, president, Drivetrain Service & Components. “All of our mutual customers are sure to benefit from the additional value that we will now be bringing to the commercial truck industry and will go a long way in distinguishing us as the leading local provider of aftermarket transmissions.”

Additional Eaton Authorized Rebuilders include PowerTrain, Indianapolis, Indiana; TransAxle, Cinnaminson, New Jersey; and Pacific Truck in Edmonton, Alberta.

Eaton provides program participants with enhanced warranty coverage and marketing support, including signage and tags for the rebuilt units, promotional materials and advertising support.

Eaton Commercial Vehicle components are backed by Eaton’s Roadranger network of more than 180 drivetrain professionals who provide solutions, support and expertise to fleets and dealers.
